Director, Global Investment Strategies

Richard Golod is Director of Global Investment Strategies for Invesco, where he analyzes global financial and economic trends to determine where investors may have the greatest potential to earn a high return with the least amount of risk.

Born in Africa and raised in Europe and Asia, Richard combines a global perspective with nearly three decades of investment experience. He relies on his own proprietary models and a worldwide network of strategists and analysts to distill complex economic issues into actionable investment ideas. Recognized for his bold opinions and informative speaking style, he regularly shares his insights through personal appearances, industry roundtables and commentaries at invesco.com/us.

Richard joined Invesco in 2010, after its acquisition of Van Kampen Investments, where he was Director of Global Investment Strategies from 1996 to 2010 and for its parent company, Morgan Stanley Investment Management, from 2007 to 2009.

Richard earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Washington University in St. Louis. He holds the Certified Investment Strategist and Certified Investment Management Analyst designations.
